Sora Katsuya is the most infamous ninja in all of Japan, gaining his notoriety after legend says that he single handedly defeated an entire Shogun's army at the age of only 17. Katsuya emerged as Japan's newest ninja mercenary, completing missions for whoever paid the highest price. The British Empire even hired him to serve as an insurgent to Napoleon's Regime, as he was the one responsible for inciting the Storming of Bastille.

However, once Katsuya had his first son, Haru, he decided to give up his line of work and enjoy life with his family in Kanazawa. However, that all changed during The Genko War, in which Tokugawa Shogunate, went on a quest to conqueror all of Japan. His campaign was vicious and brutal, and was highlighted by the sacking of the Kanazawa village, in which Tokugawa order the butchering of 10,000 villagers, children and women included.

Katsuya had been out hunting the morning of the sacking, and returned to find his wife and son slaughtered by Tokugawa's men. With rage filled in his heart, he set off on his quest to avenge his family.

After defeating Tokugawa's men at Mount Ontake, he failed to find Tokugawa himself. However, in the pockets of one of Tokugawa's generals was a map. It was a map of Kyoto, Tokugawa's capital city. However, the map also showed Kyoto's underground sewer system.
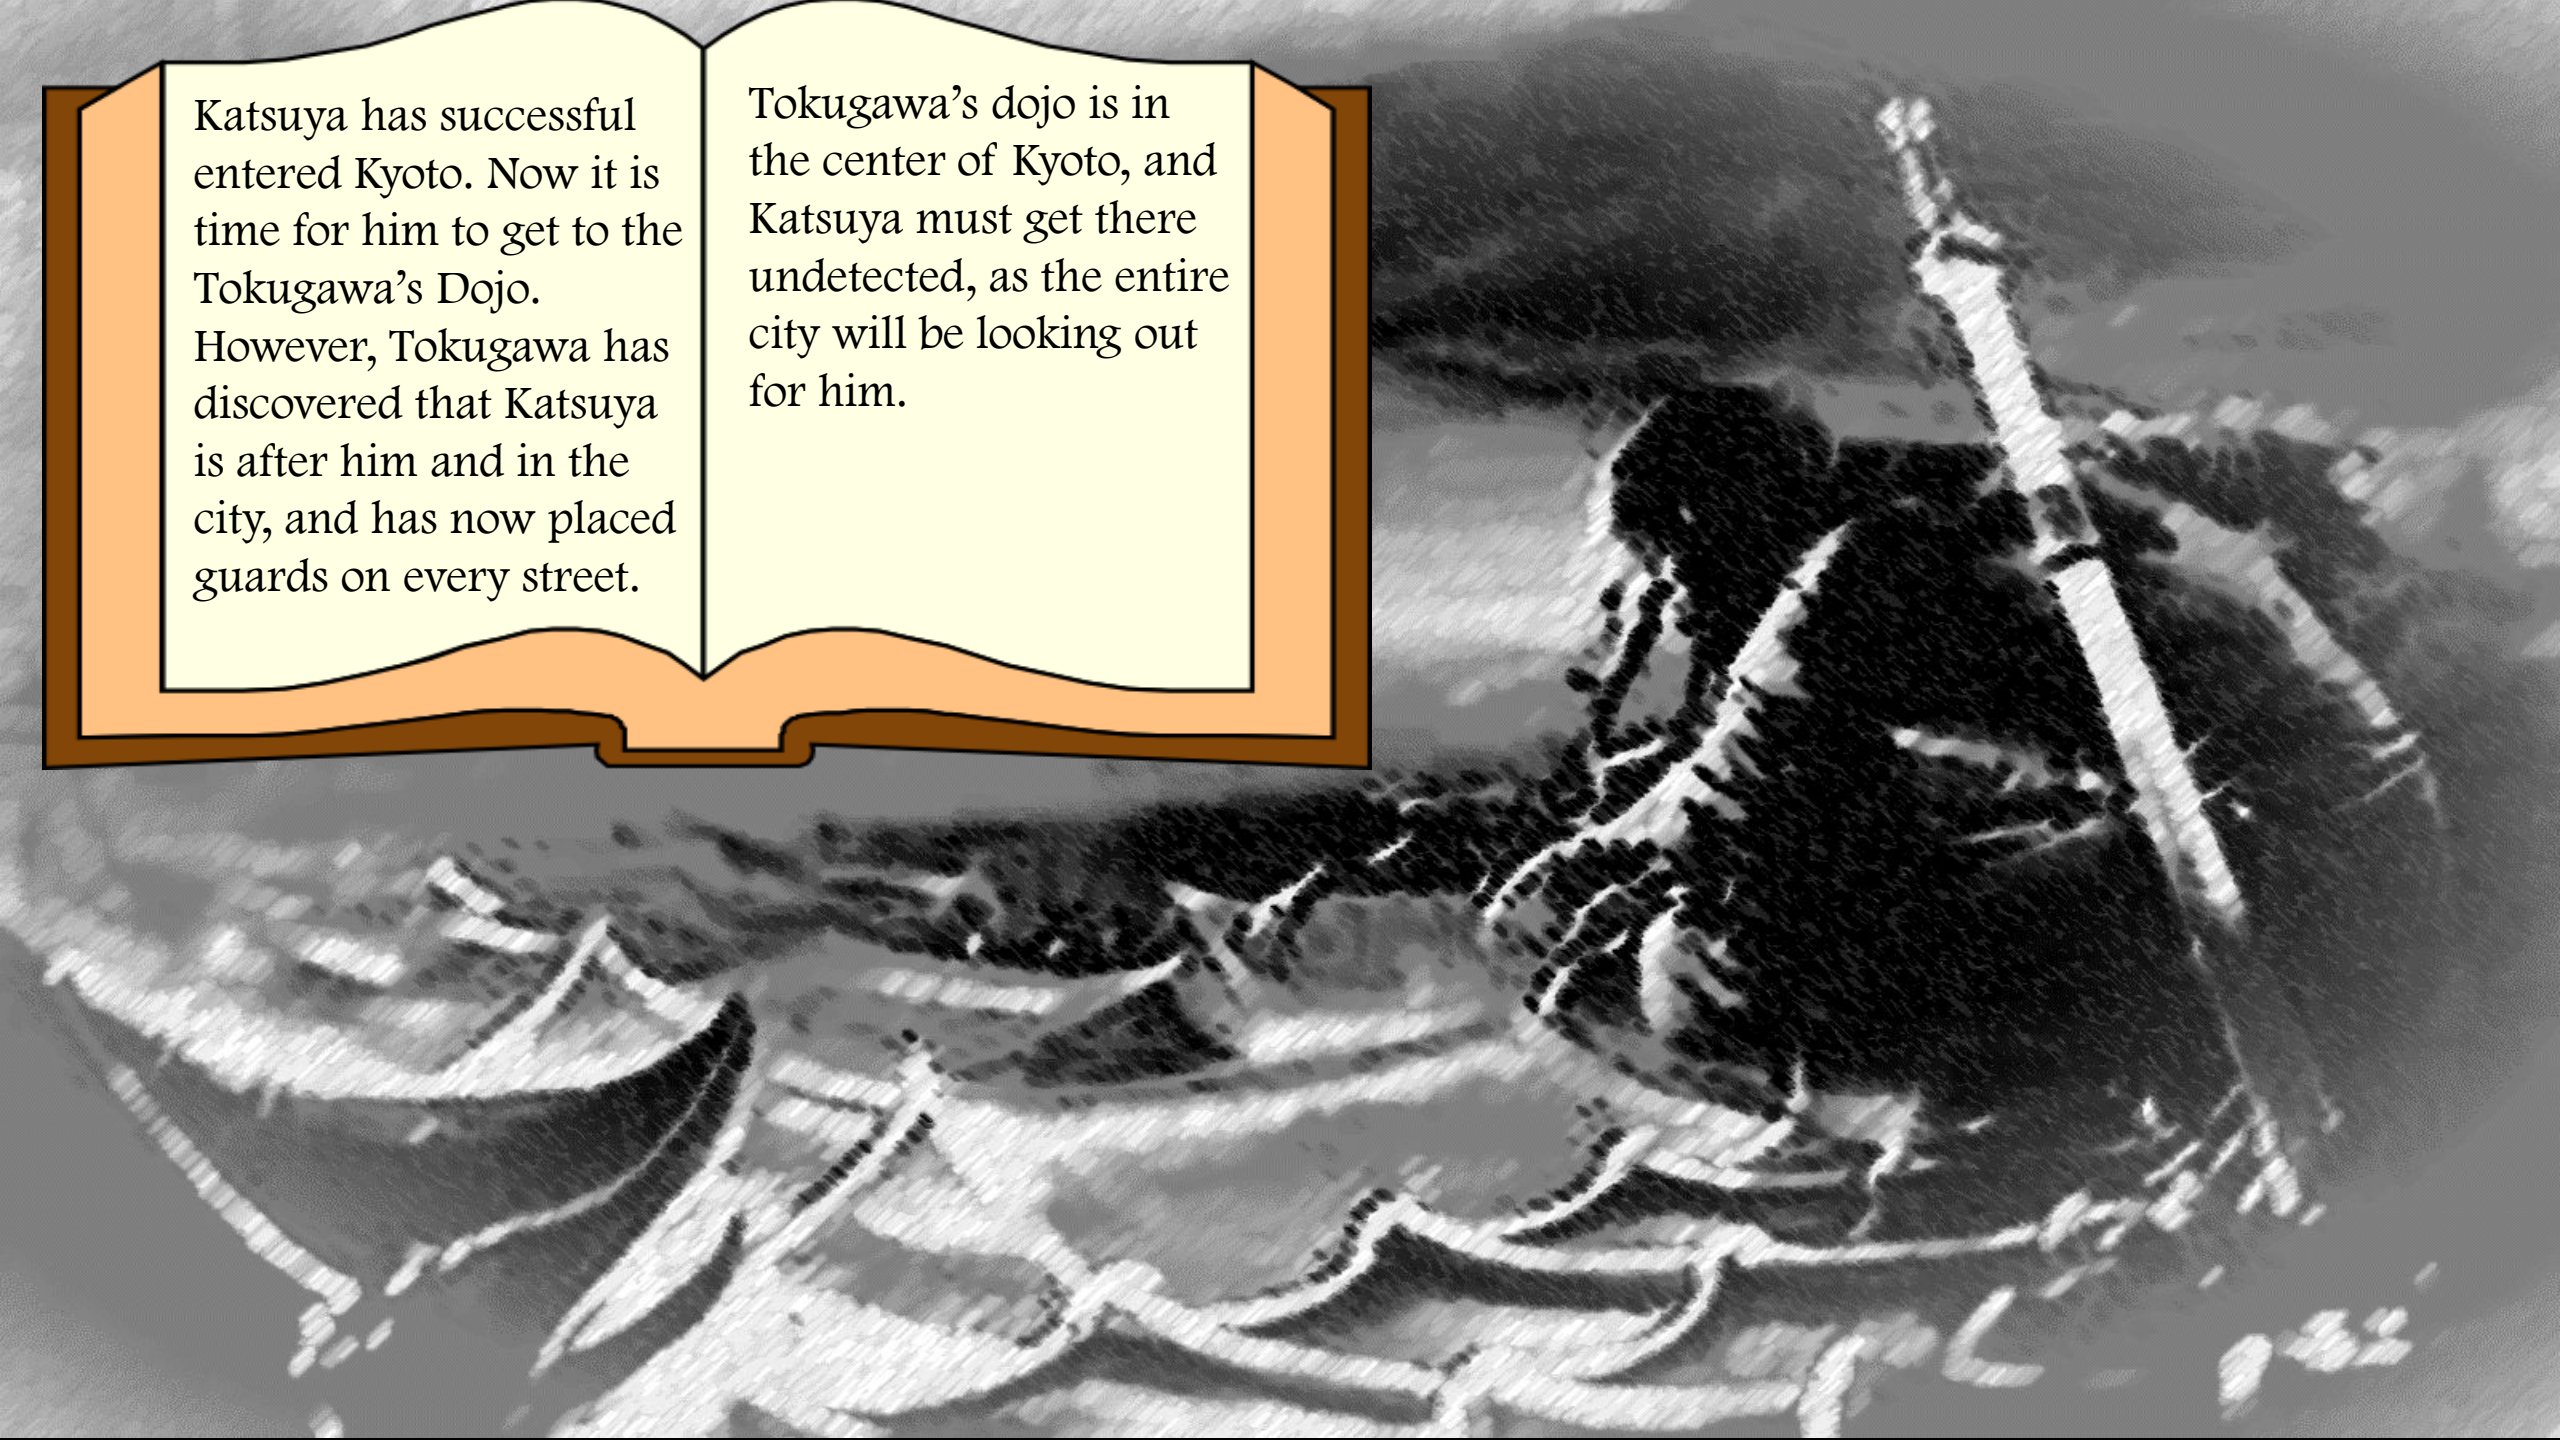

Tokugawa has been using the sewer system to transport weapons, soldiers, and even himself safely in and out of the city. Katsuya knew that his only way of getting into Kyoto and finding Tokugawa, was to use the sewer system.

Katsuya has successful entered Kyoto. Now it is time for him to get to the Tokugawa's Dojo. However, Tokugawa has discovered that Katsuya is after him and in the city, and has now placed guards on every street.

Tokugawa's dojo is in the center of Kyoto, and Katsuya must get there undetected, as the entire city will be looking out for him.

Katsuya has made it to the center of Kyoto. With the Dojo in front of him, there is only one more task to complete.
Kill Tokugawa Shogunate.
